

Highpoint guards held at knifepoint

NATALIE ROBINSON
@NatalieR_CN

FIVE prison officers escaped without injury after they were taken hostage by an inmate wielding a twin-bladed weapon at HMP Highpoint.

The incident happened at the Category C prison in Stradishall, near Haverhill, on May 12.

Three officers were quickly released, it has been reported, before the incident came to an end without injury.

Suffolk police were also made aware of the incident and are investigating.

A spokesperson said: "The incident on May 12 is being investigated by the police. A prisoner has been produced from prison and is being interviewed in connection with the incident.

"He will be dealt with in due course."

The incident was the second of two hostage incidents in two days.

The day before, on May 11, four prisoners were found to be barricaded in a cell, with one tied up and a sheet put over his head.

It took five hours before the prisoners surrendered. Suffolk police said they were aware of the incident but it was being dealt with by the prison service.

Inmates held guards hostage at HMP Highpoint in Stradishall

The incidents prompted Prisons Minister Andrew Selous to call for reform to the prison system.

In a statement to the News, he said: "We are giving governors greater freedoms to innovate and find better ways of rehabilitating offenders.

"We must do better at reducing violence and preventing drugs entering prison.

"We must do more to help prisoners with mental health problems.

"We have to ensure prisoners can be rehabilitated so they are no longer a danger to others.

"We have secured £1.3 billion to modernise the prison estate and we have responded to staffing pressures with a national net increase of 530 officers since January last year.

"These reforms will ensure prisons are places of decency and improve public safety by reducing reoffending."

Crash man in court

A 36-YEAR-OLD man has been handed a suspended sentence after an incident involving a car crashing into an elderly woman's home.

The incident took place at 2.45am on Sunday in Haverhill's Chalkstone Way, when a Volkswagen Sharan went into a bungalow.

A structural engineer had to be called to prop up the building while the vehicle was removed. The ambulance service treated the driver, who was left in the care of the police, and the resident of the building, a woman in her 80s, for shock.

Lee Beardmore, of Mitchell Circle in Wethersfield, Braintree, appeared at Ipswich Magistrates' Court on Monday charged with failing to provide a breath specimen and a saliva specimen, and assaulting a police officer.

He was handed a 12-week prison sentence suspended for 12 months. He was also asked to pay an accident surcharge of £140 and costs of £85, and was disqualified from driving for 18 months. He was ordered to pay compensation of £100 for the charge of assaulting a police officer.

TRIBUTES have been paid to a former borough, county and town councillor who died earlier this month.

Phillip French died in his sleep on the night of May 7, according to his friend Ste-fan Jones.

Mr Jones, who says his

he was always standing up

2011 to 2015. He was a Suf-

Chair of the county coun-my fellow councillors and staff when I say that we are very sad to hear of the death of our former colleague and that Phillip will be both missed and remembered with great affection."

Borough council chair Cllr
John Griffiths added: "Phillip worked hard on behalf of residents not just in Haverhill where he was elected, but across the whole of the borough and indeed he was formally recognised for his

'How guide dog Parsley has changed my life'

DEDICATED: Simon Edwards with guide dog Parsley
Picture: David Johnson

Let us have your views at cambridge-news.co.uk/haverhill

HANNAH MIRSKY
@HannahMirskyCN

A MAN who says his life was transformed by getting a guide dog is dedicating himself to helping other people with sight loss.

Simon Edwards, who lives in Haverhill, is a speaker and volunteer for Guide Dogs for the Blind. He was one of 112 guide dog owners who visited the Houses of Parliament yesterday calling for stricter enforcement of laws that ban taxi drivers from turning guide dog owners away.

Simon lost his sight in his left eye six years ago and his right eye four years ago. Last year, he got a guide dog. He said: "It changed my life. I spent three years basically just sat indoors. I was petrified to go out, and I've always been an outgoing person."

He was diagnosed with severe depression, anxiety and post-traumatic stress during the time between losing his sight and getting a guide dog, and is still recovering.

He said: "It's just a battle, but it's a battle that I'm so stubborn that I'm going to beat."

Last year Simon did guide dog training in Norwich, and went into a chemist's to make a purchase.

He said: "I broke down in tears when I came out of the shop, in the middle of Norwich. I said: 'That's the first time in three years that I've walked into a shop on my own and come out on my own.'"

DOGS HAVE THEIR DAY: Simon Edwards was part of a delegation of guide dogs and their owners who went to the Houses of Parliament this week

Since having a guide dog he has become an active volunteer, doing talks in schools and community groups with his guide dog Parsley and visiting the homes of people with sight loss.

He says his aim is to help other people feel the way he did when he came out of the pharmacy in Norwich.

Simon was part of a delegation to the Houses of Parliament supporting a campaign to make sure that people with guide dogs do not get turned away by taxi drivers. The only reason a driver is legally allowed to refuse a guide dog is medical exemption – and Simon says that research done by Guide Dogs for the Blind revealed that just two taxi drivers in Cambridge have medical exemption certificates. But refusals still happen.

Simon said: "My friends in other towns say: 'I've been stranded.' If you are with a guide dog then you've got to phone friends and family. It's very distressing for them."

He said his experience with taxi drivers in Haverhill had been very positive, but that he had experienced refusals in other places.

He said: "I have had the odd occasion in shops. I had one shop say: 'You can't bring a dog in here!' It's like they hadn't had the training because it's something they hadn't had to deal with before."

Taxi drivers who refuse to take guide dogs can face £1,000 fines and have their licences removed, but Guide Dogs for the Blind's research – carried out via Freedom of Information requests – revealed that of 291 incidents reported by 119 local councils in the past five years, just 53 resulted in a prosecution.

At the Houses of Parliament yesterday Simon and the other guide dog owners who attended had the chance to talk to MPs from across the country about the issue.

He said: "It was a really good day. There were 112 guide dogs in the hall and you couldn't hear one bark!"

He said a private members' bill relating to the issue was set to be discussed in the House of Commons today.

CRIME

Charity box theft 'gutting'

A VOLUNTEER has been left "gutted" after a charity box was stolen.

The East Anglian Air Ambulance collection box went missing from Haverhill Pharmacy, in Camps Road, on Sunday, May 15.

Volunteer Tom Tilley – who is responsible for the air ambulance's collection boxes in Haverhill – went into the pharmacy the following Tuesday to pick it up and empty the money out, only to discover that it had been taken.

He said: "You just feel gutted that people donated their money to a good cause, something that could save somebody's life, and they just take it. It's very disheartening."

Mr Tilley does not know how much money was in the collection box at the time, but says amounts he has collected from other boxes have ranged from £10 all the way up to £325.

He said: "The fact is,

HANNAH MIRSKY

@HannahMirskyCN

there's something like 200 volunteers in the charity putting their time up for free.

"The government doesn't give it any money at all, it's total charity – and they just take it."

Pharmacist manager Zuzer Musaji said the pharmacy had suffered thefts before, with small items like pens and a display about tar in the lungs going missing. On one occasion, the whole pharmacy till was stolen, but this was the first time money destined for charity had been stolen.

Mr Musaji said: "We are just a bit disappointed that people would go to that sort of level – especially when it's a charity box, it's actually for a good cause."

The police are asking anyone who saw anything suspicious in the area of the pharmacy at around 4pm on Sunday, May 15, to contact them on 101 quoting crime reference number 37/34187/16. Their investigations into the incident are continuing.

Mr Tilley said: "If anyone knows who those people are, let someone know."

He also asked for anyone who finds the charity box – described as "a red, round container with an air ambulance sticker" – to return it to the pharmacy.

The life-saving air ambulance has made numerous trips to Haverhill.

One of the most recent occasions involved taking a man in his 40s to a specialist burns unit after he suffered serious injury to his face while lighting a fire in his chimney on May 14.

Youngsters explore world of books

A NEW session to encourage children to read for pleasure has been launched at Haverhill Library.

The Chatterbooks sessions are aimed at reluctant readers or those who have little confidence reading, aged 7 to 11.

They involve exploring the world of books through games and activities to encourage reading for pleasure.

The next session, on Saturday from 10.30am at the Camps Road Library, is the second of four pilot sessions.

These are running on the last Saturday of each month and if they are successful the scheme will be extended.

Dangerous wild animals being kept in region

What do you think? Let us have your views at cambridge-news.co.uk/haverhill

WILD TIMES: Lynx are among the wild cats being kept privately in West Suffolk. Inset, Carol Harris, who runs Jaybeth Animal Sanctuary near Haverhill, says that in some cases it could possibly lead to the animals being 'kept in misery'

LYNX, bobcats and African hunting dogs are all being kept privately in West Suffolk.

Twenty-two dangerous wild animal licences have been issued to individuals in the area.

The majority are wild cats, including lynx, jaguarundis and caracals, but it also includes three African hunting dogs and a tayra – a kind of large weasel.

The figures were released by Forest Heath District and St Edmundsbury Borough Councils in response to a Freedom of Information request.

Dangerous wild animal licences are issued by local authorities to allow people to keep undomesticated animals as pets, provided safety measures are in place.

Carol Harris, who runs Jaybeth Animal Sanctuary in Barnardiston, near Haverhill, said as it was difficult to provide the right conditions to meet the needs of wild animals, in some cases it could possibly lead to them being 'kept in misery'.

HANNAH MIRSKY

She said: "I did see a wild animal licence a few years ago when I was asked to help a hybrid wolf. Basically I felt that that creature could not be happy in captivity."

Her concerns echo those of the RSPCA, who told the News: "The emphasis of this legislation is on making sure the owner takes reasonable steps to prevent the animal from being a threat to the public, rather than the welfare of the animals concerned."

Ms Harris advised those who were considering getting a dangerous wild animal to think long and hard first.

She said: "Look at it very carefully and don't even think about it without making sure you have got a vet within driving distance. Have a real look at the ins and outs.

"Basically my advice is, just don't bother – watch a David Attenborough programme."

She pointed out that there were many domestic animals which were in need of care, and that some wild animals could live a very long time.

But Kim Simmons, director of Linton Zoo, said that in her experience private owners of dangerous wild animals were able to help with breeding programmes for endangered species.

She said: "We don't oppose the keeping of dangerous wild animals or any exotics if they are kept correctly and they are fully licensed – that's not really any different from a zoo."

She said that anyone with a licence was subject to rigorous inspections, and that the owners she knew "do a fantastic job of both welfare and public safety."

More lies to get our vote

I HAVE just listened to David Cameron state that if we leave the EU holidays could cost up to £200 more per family backed up by the CEO of EasyJet.

So I have just gone on line to check return flights from Luton to Heraklion Crete, an EU country. It came up at £217 going in June. I then checked for the same date going to Bodrum, Turkey, a non-EU country. It came out at £167.

As per usual we are being told a pack of lies. Like when he says our jobs are protected in the EU. I don't think the steel workers would agree – after all they didn't stop the Chinese dumping all that steel on the EU market.

Thank you for helping me

On my behalf will you please publish a big thank you to four gallant gentlemen who stopped their car to help me when I had a nasty fall recently. Also thanks to the family in the house outside where I fell.

I am now getting along fine, taking all the necessary medication.

Thank you.

Will you support our appeal?

I'M writing to appeal to your readers to get involved and show their support for Harrison's Fund's Blue Hair Day on June 26.

The aim of the day is to increase awareness of Duchenne Muscular Dystrophy and raise money for researchers, who are working on finding a cure for children that will not have a future due to their prognosis. The money raised will fund a research physiotherapist.

Duchenne is a neuromuscular condition caused by the lack of a protein called dystrophin and is 100% fatal. One in 3,500 boys is born with Duchenne muscular dystrophy in the United Kingdom each year. Their average lifespan is just 20 years.

Both of my young sons were diagnosed on June 26 in 2014 and this campaign is a positive way to mark this anniversary as a day that we remember for brighter, more hopeful reasons.

As a dad of two boys with this fatal condition, I am passionate about highlighting this cause and drawing attention to this lesser known disease.

We're asking everyone to support the campaign by:

■ Donning blue wigs and asking your friends, family members and colleagues to sponsor you.

■ Do something fun wearing your wig and raise money your own way.

■ Speak to your friends and family members and get them to support the campaign and Harrison's Fund, and be part of the search for a cure.

Diseases touch every single person, so we're asking everyone to take a moment to read about Blue Hair Day and get involved.

Please follow us on Facebook and Twitter and share the #BlueHairDay and other fun content on June 26 to help spread the word. You can also text Blue to 70660 to donate £5. Visit <https://harrisonsfund.com/blue-hair-day> to find out more.

HAVERHILL LIONS CLUB

The club asked that the money go to St Nicholas Hospice at the Burton Centre in Haverhill, as they like money which is raised locally to be used to help the local community. The money was raised at the club's Santa's Grotto at Sturmer Nurseries and Garden Centre.

Mr Chilvers said: "We are extremely grateful for the support from Haverhill Lions Club, their donation allows us to continue to provide the help to those in need and their families."

Phil Cheesmur, club president, said: "We are very pleased to be able to help support St Nicholas Hospice in the excellent work they do in supporting local people through difficult times."

The president and vice-president of Haverhill Lions Club together with two club members visited St Nicholas Hospice at the Burton Centre on Friday, May 20, where they met Mr Chilvers and other members of the support staff.

They were very impressed by the facilities and level of support that the staff are able to offer to those in need.

Haverhill Lions Club was chartered in 1982 and aims to help the less fortunate people within the Haverhill area through community service and fund-raising.

It has raised more than £125,000 for local charitable causes over the years.

In the past year the club has made donations to the Mayor's appeal to provided ultra sound equipment for Haverhill, and Haverhill Foodbank, these are two of the charities the club will be supporting this year.

MUSIC

Music festival to raise funds for accident service

A PUB near Haverhill is holding a festival in aid of a charity after its doctors saved the life of the manager's daughter.

Bradman's pub in Withersfield is organising a four-day extravaganza in aid of Suffolk Accident Rescue Service (SARS) over the August bank holiday weekend.

It will start with an Oktoberfest-style Bavarian night on Friday, August 26, with a ska and two-tone day on the Saturday, an all-day music festival on the Sunday, and barbecues on the Monday.

The festival is set to feature a performance from soul singer Kenny Thomas, famous for 90's singles such as Outstanding, Thinking About Your Love, and Best of You.

SARS is a team of doctors and paramedics who support the East of England Ambulance Service. The specialist doctors are able to carry life-saving equipment and drugs which are not necessarily found on front-line ambulances. The doctors are all volunteers and the organisation receives no government funding.

Bradman's manager Lee D'Arcy-Jones wanted to organise the festival after discovering that it was SARS doctors who saved his daughter, Daisy's life two years ago.

He said: "My little girl had a basic vomiting bug when she was only about 18 months old. She had a fit. What had happened was she had been so ill she lost all her body salts. The paramedics got as far as the Sainsbury's roundabout and they were losing her."

He said a SARS doctor came from Sudbury to the roundabout and gave Daisy the treatment that saved her life.

Mr D'Arcy-Jones added: "She wouldn't have made it – it was that simple."

He said it was only when SARS approached the pub about running a fundraising event that he discovered it was their doctor who was responsible for saving Daisy's life.

Mr D'Arcy-Jones is hoping to raise £10,000 for the medical charity this year, and to expand the festival and raise even more in future years.

MP Matthew Hancock will be opening the festival. He said: "I am delighted to be attending the festival at Bradman's in Withersfield in aid of the Suffolk Accident Rescue Service. SARS does vital work – getting medical attention to those who need it before they are transferred to hospital can make a huge difference to patient outcomes. This organisation needs all our support and I hope that many people in the area will turn out on the night."

POLITICS

New plan for county devolution

A NEW plan for devolution in East Anglia could keep Suffolk and Cambridgeshire separate.

The government's initial proposals for an "East Anglian powerhouse" involved Suffolk, Cambridgeshire and Norfolk joining together under one directly elected mayor.

But this proved unpopular in Cambridgeshire, with county council leader Steve Count leading the fight for a different "brother and sister" devolution deal.

This would see Suffolk join with Norfolk and Cambridgeshire join with Peterborough. The new authorities would work closely together on things like transport, but under separate, directly elected mayors.

The BBC reported last week that local government secretary Greg Clark had persuaded Chancellor George Osborne to accept this new deal.

Transport campaigners in Haverhill – which lies on the border of Suffolk and Cambridgeshire – have long been calling for closer co-operation between the two counties. Campaign group Rail Haverhill sent a letter to the MPs for West Suffolk, South East Cambridgeshire and South Cambridgeshire in April asking them to work closely together on creating a Cambridge to Haverhill rail link.

MP for West Suffolk Matthew Hancock said about the new devolution proposals: "I support decisions about Haverhill being made as close to the area whenever possible and I am hoping that a sensible and workable solution will be found through further discussion over the coming weeks."

COMMUNITY

Activity group for people with dementia

A NEW activity group for people affected by dementia has been launched in Haverhill.

The group, which runs on the first Thursday of each month, is aimed at people with all types of dementia and their carers, and provides a fun afternoon of activities.

The next session, run by the Alzheimer's Society, is being held on Thursday, June 2 at the Burton Centre in Haverhill's Camps Road.

Becky Nicholson of the Alzheimer's Society: "It's all about mental stimulation. It also gives the carers a chance to talk to people in a similar situation."

At the first session attendees completed a quiz about the history of Haverhill, and other quizzes about past decades, from the 1930s through to the 1960s.

Mrs Nicholson said: "The idea of reminiscence is you get people talking that wouldn't otherwise say a lot."

She said that the first session had seen a good turnout, with people travelling from Sudbury to attend.

Mrs Nicholson said that she had suggested setting up the group in Haverhill when the Alzheimer's Society were looking for new towns to develop the programme to.

She said: "The thing in Haverhill is it's very much out on a limb – everything seems to happen in Bury St Edmunds or Sudbury. I suggested Haverhill because of the older population."

At next Thursday's session, which starts at 2pm, activities will include musical bingo. Call 01473 237 301 to find out more.

Artist in quest to find a new home for sculpture

HANNAH MIRSKY

@HannahMirskyCN

AN artist is trying to find a new home for a metre-long mosaic sculpture.

Sculptor Jilly Cunningham's "Mother and Child Revisited" is a sculpture of a large open book connected by an "umbilical cord" to an e-reader.

It is the sister sculpture to a piece on display at Haverhill Library, a similar design which features a closed book and a longer cord.

Jilly said that the piece, which is over a metre long, is about the change from the printed word to the screen in the way we consume information.

"Mother and Child Revisited" has been on display at the customer lounge in Marshall's Airport, Cambridge, but as the lounge is closing, it needs a new home.

The sculpture is set to be put up for auction at Sworders Fine Art in Stansted on June 21, but Jilly is making a final call for local buyers.

She said: "I am reluctant in the sense that I did want it to stay in Cambridge and I have no idea where it's going to end up."

"It belongs in some sort of foyer in some sort of technological place."

Jilly, who has lived in Shudy Camps for 15 of the last 20 years, said she had been hoping that one of the scientific institutes in the Cambridge area might take an interest in the work.

"Mother and Child Revisited", like the work in Haverhill Library, is a mosaic sculpture covered in pieces of glass.

The sculpture took more than three months to create, and is covered in 2,000 pieces of hand-cut iridescent Murano glass, which represent the 2,000 years since words were first written on paper.

Jilly will be exhibiting more of her work at Cambridge Open Studios in Grantchester in July.

If you are interested in providing a new home for the sculpture, email Jilly at jilcunningham@yahoo.co.uk.

NEWS IN BRIEF

Call to check medicine cabinets for holiday

DOCTORS are reminding residents to stock up on medical supplies for the bank holiday weekend.

Dr Christopher Browning, chair of the NHS West Suffolk Clinical Commissioning Group, said: "One of the best ways to be prepared is to have a well-stocked medicine cabinet. It's not expensive to stock up on basic items such as sticking plasters, paracetamol, anti-diarrhoea medicine and indigestion remedy."

Pharmacies open in Haverhill over the bank holiday include Boots in the High Street, Sainsbury's Pharmacy in Hanchett End and Tesco Pharmacy in Cangle Road.

If you need medical advice and it is non-urgent over the bank holiday, you can call NHS 111.

POLICE

Drive to recruit more specials

A MAJOR recruitment drive to encourage more people to become specials with Suffolk police will be held next month.

Haverhill-based specials inspector David Howse, who is running the event on June 6, said: "If anybody thought being a special constable was wearing a uniform and going off to fights and fetes, it's not. It's very professional."

Specials are officers who do the same work as regular police officers, but on a voluntary basis, working a minimum of 16 hours a month – the equivalent of two weekend shifts.

Specials receive intensive training over the course of 10 weekends (spread across 20 weeks) to enable them to carry out police work to a professional standard.

Insp Howse runs a team of specials who contribute to the fight against drug crime in West Suffolk by carrying out warrants on properties.

HANNAH MIRSKY
@HannahMirskyCN

He said that the area of policing in which a special works is based on their interests and skills – with many specials from an agricultural background, for example, choosing to work on targeting rural crime.

He added: "For anybody who has thought of becoming a police officer and wants to take a first step, obviously the competencies you have to have are quite special."

"If you wanted to be a police officer being a special is a good way of doing it – people have the competencies they have learned doing the job."

He added that being a special constable was a way of giving back to the community, and a boost for self esteem.

The recruitment event will take place at the Days Inn Hotel, in Phoenix Road, Haverhill, from 7.30pm.

To be a special you need to be 18 or over, of good character and have a basic level of physical fitness.

At the session on June 6, potential recruits will be talked through the realities of being a special. They will have the opportunity to ask questions about being a special and the training process. Application packs will be given out at the end of the session.

If you would like to confirm your attendance at the event, email specialsandvolunteers@suffolk.pnn.police.uk

Village war memorial is listed

A WAR memorial in Withersfield is one of hundreds to be listed over the last year.

The Grade II listing is part of Historic England's aim to have 2,500 war memorials across the country listed by 2018.

The obelisk-shaped monument on the village green was unveiled in 1921 to commemorate 15 men from the village who died in the First World War. The original inscription reads: "In memory of the glorious sacrifice of the men of Withersfield who fell in the Great War."

After the Second World War the name of a Withersfield man who died in that conflict was added.

Festival 'fortnight of fun and quality' for revellers

CUT ABOVE: Street entertainers will be performing in the High Street. Inset, Barbara Dickson will be playing during Haverhill Festival

THE full line-up for this year's Haverhill Festival has been announced – covering everything from street performers to folk music.

This is the 26th year the town council-run arts festival has taken place, and this year it is due to run from June 15 to July 3.

The final weekend of the festival is set to be spectacular, with a beer festival and music on the market square both days, and street performers entertaining in Haverhill High Street on Saturday, July 2.

The town's first big Armed Forces Day celebration – organised in conjunction with the Haverhill Family History Group, the Royal British Legion and St Mary's Church – will form part of the festival this year, falling on June 25. It will include marching bands, parades, military vehicles and exhibitions.

There is also a packed programme of arts events.

Nick Keeble, the town council's arts and leisure manager, described the festival as a fortnight of "fun and quality".

He continued: "We are reintro-ducing the folk day, which was quite a big part of the festival in the past."

This nine-hour folk music event will be held at The Bull on June 18, with performers including Sheri Kershaw and the Hobb Band.

Other cultural highlights include Barbara Dickson, known for such 80's hits as I Know Him So Well and January February, and Australian comedy hypnotist Matt Hale.

Free guided walks around the town have been a key part of the festival since its launch. This year is no different, with wildlife walks in West Town Park and the Millfields Way wildlife area on June 18 and 27, and a history tour on June 30.

Other events include Edinburgh Fringe previews and live broadcasts from the National Theatre and Glyndebourne.

CYCLISTS: Gerald and Debbie during their 456-mile ride

Couple finish marathon cycle ride

A COUPLE have completed a cycle ride from the far west to the east of Britain – despite an emergency pick-up just 25 miles from the end of the route.

Gerald and Debbie Blake, both 58, of Hudson Close in Haverhill, set out on the 456-mile ride from St David's in Wales to Ness Point in Suffolk on Wednesday, April 27. They were raising money for Alzheimer's UK.

They aimed to complete the challenge in 10 days, but after battling horizontal rain and easterly winds found themselves 25 miles from Ness Point and unable to go any further.

They were rescued by their friend Steve Reid and managed to complete the ride the following day. They have so far raised over £650.

Gerald said: "We would like to say a massive thank you to everyone who donated and sent us messages of encouragement to keep going to the end."

Have you suffered medical negligence or had an accident?

Glasswells celebrates its 70th anniversary with a flourish

IT'S a special year for East Anglia's biggest independent furniture store, Glasswells, who are this month celebrating their 70th year of trading with a flourish. What better time to look back at the decade where it all began for this well loved and respected family business?

In the 1940s Jerry Glasswell, the grandfather of today's managing director Paul, had seen a glimpse of the potential market in the world of furniture through experience with furniture auctions. So, with £2,000 left over from the sale of a property in London, alongside £300 his son Leslie had saved while serving in the RAF, father and son pooled their resources and established the first Glasswells shop at 35 Brentgovel Street in Bury St Edmunds, what would become their flagship store.

The search for premises had not been easy, however, and it was only with the surety from local solicitor Tom Wilson that they agreed a rent with the owners, of £100 a year.

Purveying the best second-hand furniture, glass and china, Glasswells opened its doors in May 1946, with Jerry and son Leslie partners from the outset, later taking on Jerry's brother Frank and brother-in-law Tom Buckle as their first employees. Things weren't easy to begin with so Jerry's wife Ethel helped run the shop while the men continued their work as freelance porters at local auctions. It was an ideal combination as the sales were also a means of acquiring stock for resale.

Business was so brisk that they took over the lease of the property next door the following year, doubling both their selling space and their turnover, which doubled again a year later. A big business decision was also made that year – 1948 – to start selling only new furniture, as second-hand furniture was in great demand and becoming difficult to acquire. To complete the company's family orientation Jerry's daughter Peggy then joined the business, as cashier and wages clerk, but also helping to run their own hire purchase scheme.

It was in March 1949 that Glasswells took a gamble and pulled off a masterstroke, after Leslie persuaded his father Jerry to stage a furniture exhibition. Unable to book The Old Town Hall in Bury, they decided to hire Haverhill Town Hall. Despite the £100 hire cost (a huge sum back then) it was an opportunity to promote the Glasswells name further afield in a town with no furniture store at the time, and taking it for a few days meant they could create attractive furnishing displays in authentic room settings.

The show duly turned out to be a massive success, and with the Town Hall crammed with visitors, takings soared to £3,600 in three and a half days. Compared to the average £500 weekly take at the Bury store this was a staggering amount, and they immediately began looking for permanent premises in Haverhill to cater for the demand.

Next month we'll be taking a look at how things progressed for Glasswells in the 1950s, with the hit exhibitions moving around the region for several week stints to capitalise on their popularity.

The story of a local institution continues.

Archers achieves Interiors success

ARCHERS Interiors, the respected local company specialising in kitchens and bathrooms, celebrates its third anniversary trading from their Haverhill showroom this year.

Owners Terry and Sally Archer established the business in 2013. Terry, who has 25 years' experience in the industry, is the chief designer and project manager while Sally manages the finances and runs the office.

As the enterprise grew again last year, Archers recruited to the team Aaron Groom, who underwent extensive in-house computer aided design and product training for several months and started to build his own client base.

"A kitchen is a practical place," explains Aaron. "Our designs will always maximise storage and convenience and still look great!"

The company uses high-quality materials and brands to make the best possible use of the space available, and they offer no-obligation in-home consultations free of charge. Following the designers' visit, Archers will prepare, plan and perspective drawings and provide a quote for your project.

Archers offer a supply-only service or full installation if required – they have an excellent local reputation and come highly recommended by satisfied customers in the area.

If you're looking to revamp your bedroom too, the good news is that Archers also offer fitted bedroom furniture, with the same great levels of service and expertise offered by their kitchen and bathroom work.

So if you're seeking to improve your home with a beautifully designed and fitted new kitchen, bathroom or bedroom, just pop in to the showroom at Archers Interiors, Unit 7, Moonhall Business Park, Helions Bumpstead Road, Haverhill, CB9 7AA, or phone (01440) 762118 for a no-obligation chat.

COAL

CENTRE Stage Company and Haverhill Silver Band combine to bring the stage version of 1990's hit film Brassed Off to the arts centre from Wednesday, June 9, to Saturday, June 11.

Grimley Colliery is set to close as accountants say there's more money in it shut than open. It means 1,200 job losses, a dying town and the demise of its brass band. But under the leadership of Danny, coughing with coal-dusted lungs, the band is somehow transformed into British champions.

Young miner and bandsman Andy is re-united with his childhood sweetheart who has returned to the town and joined the band. But his hopes of love look doomed when it emerges she is working for management.

This 'great and terrible' story seems as resonant today as it was in post-Thatcher Britain.

■ Thursday, May 26 – Friday, June 3
■ Discover Arts has given audiences full access to some of the world's most captivating galleries, theatres and works of art. Teatro alla Scala: The Temple of Wonders tonight at 7.30pm is a film that leads us through the main historical, musical, social and political events in the Milan opera house La Scala's 238-year history. Thanks to historical music and theatre greats such as Giuseppe Verdi and Arturo Toscanini, and contemporary arts directors including Franco Zeffirelli and Patrice Chéreau, Teatro Alla Scala has upheld its position as a world-class theatre throughout the years. The story is beautifully brought to life on the big screen through statements and commentary from musicians, experts and aficionados, and features photographs, musical scores, paintings and videos from centuries of archive material.

■ DJ and broadcaster David 'Diddy' Hamilton began his career in 1959 and has hosted more than 12,000 radio shows and over 1,000 TV shows. Together, with The Fugitives and the sensational Tiffany Girls, he journeys back on Saturday, May 28, to the time of beehives and mini-skirts to tell the stories behind the classic songs that we all know and love. Join David for a trip back to your big hair days in his Rock 'n' Roll Back the Years Show from 7.30pm.

■ Jeremy Hardy begins his fourth decade as a stand-up this year. That's a more dramatic way of saying he started 32 years ago and, without a lottery win, probably has at least another 32 years to go! Last year, the 10th series of Jeremy Hardy Speaks to the Nation was broadcast on Radio 4. He is also well known for his appearances on The News Quiz and I'm Sorry I Haven't a Clue. The word has obviously got out, he's practically sold out! The lucky ticket holders can join him on Wednesday, June 1, at 8pm.

■ Popular Blunderbus Theatre returns to the arts centre with a brand new adaptation of the timeless tale The Sorcerer's Apprentice especially for little sorcerers aged 3 – 7 on Thursday, June 2, at 11am and 1.30pm. Charlie Hubble is a little boy with a very big dream, he wants to be a world-class magician. So, he saves up his pocket money to buy The Big Book of Magic and sets off to Mr Zaccor's shop to buy it. But Mr Zaccor is no ordinary shopkeeper, he's a real life sorcerer! And he has a very special job for Charlie.

■ New Yorker Woody Mann returns to Haverhill with an enticing mix of American acoustic blues, roots and jazz guitar all played with passion and sensitivity on Thursday, June 2, at 8pm. Woody is one of the world's most renowned guitar masters and song-story tellers and even taught Paul Simon how to play! Think bridge, water ...

■ On the cinema front for half term the arts centre is showing Zootropolis 2D (PG) on Tuesday, May 31, at 2.30pm and Friday, June 3, at 10.30am. Judy Hopps, a determined young rabbit, enlists in the local police force and to solve the mysterious case of a missing rabbit, must team up with a con-artist fox.

Kung Fu Panda 3 (PG), showing on Friday, June 3, at 2.30pm, sees Po and his long-lost father Li training a village of clumsy, fun-loving pandas to defeat a supernatural villain, to become the ultimate kung fu warriors. For the big kids we have Eye in the Sky (15) one of the last films Alan Rickman starred in alongside Helen Mirren before he died, showing on Tuesday, May 31, at 7.30pm. In this nerve-shredding account of a top-secret operation to capture a group of terrorists in Kenya, Colonel Powell argues that a drone strike may prevent a terrorist attack. But when a little girl wanders into the kill zone, the mission is thrown into disarray.

■ Forthcoming events include Centre Stage Company's Brassed Off from Wednesday, June 8, to Saturday, June 11, at 7.30pm with a Saturday matinee at 2.30pm, Brooklyn Academy of Music's live broadcast of The Judas Kiss on Sunday, June 12, at 8pm and a RSC recorded broadcast of Hamlet on Wednesday, June 15, at 7pm. Something for everyone.

Top marks at the Shaftesbury

THE Stephen Perse Foundation, advised by Savills, has acquired The Shaftesbury Building on Shaftesbury Road in Cambridge. The top independent day school has taken a new 15-year lease on the property, which totals 5,220 sq ft (485 sq m) and comprises a period office building, recently refurbished and extended, and a mix of open plan and individual offices and meeting rooms. William Clarke, associate director of business space at Savills Cambridge (above), commented: "The Stephen Perse Foundation was looking for an additional facility to grow its sixth form division, part of which is already based on Shaftesbury Road. The location and style of The Shaftesbury Building suited its needs well, and we are hopeful that this will be another step in the foundation's growth and commitment to Cambridge." Dodson Jones advised the owner of The Shaftesbury Building.

with an arrangement of open plan and cellular offices/meeting rooms. The firm's most recent occupier is a company working in the energy sector and suggests that the building would be suitable for office occupiers. Design practices, IT and other services are available in the vicinity. The building is a 780 sq ft, two-storey space, with a staff of up to six or seven. Shaftesbury House Estate is positioned off the A142 which runs between Ely and Newmarket and which gives onward access to the A14, west to Cambridge and east to the ports and the A11 towards Norwich as well as the A11 interchange south towards the M11 and Stansted Airport. ‘I have self-respect again. If I can do it, you can too’

Becoming visually impaired after battling a brain tumour, Rojimon Cherian was unable to work and lost his confidence – but after discovering the joys of exercise, he’s turned his life around. Emma Higginbotham meets him.

ALL, broad and the picture of good health, Rojimon Cherian is looking dapper in his bright green gym instructor’s uniform. Now in his fifth month working at Better’s Parkside Pools and Gym in Cambridge, the 42-year-old is clearly in his element – and can’t keep the smile off his face.

“I love working here,” beams Rojimon. “It’s such a good atmosphere, and everyone is so helpful. And I hope that I, in turn, am helping the people who come here to train, especially disabled people.”

If anyone can relate to people with disabilities, it’s Rojimon. Blind in one eye and with only a strip of vision in the other, he has to move carefully, and walks with a white stick at night. And although it’s hard to imagine now, Rojimon has experienced the dark side of disability too. Not so long ago, unable to work and feeling “worthless”, he was too depressed to leave the house.

Originally from India, Rojimon first came to the UK with his wife Bincy, a carer, back in 2004. Settling in Cambridge, life was good – but it wasn’t long before he started noticing problems with his vision. “When I was driving, there’d be a few seconds when I couldn’t see anything,” he recalls. “And when I was watching TV, if there was one person on screen, I could see three or four of the same person.”

“I went to the doctor, and they said maybe it was migraines, so they gave me a heavy dose of tablets. But they didn’t make a difference, so the doctor said I’d better have my eyes checked.”

Rojimon duly booked an appointment with a local optician, “and they looked at my eyes through their machine and said ‘There’s something wrong in your eye. Something’s blocking it’.”

A scan at Addenbrooke’s was arranged – and the news was bad. “I had a tumour; it was very big, totally covering the left side of my brain,” he says. “The doctor said ‘It’s better if you stay here tonight, then tomorrow we can do the surgery’.”

“I totally panicked. It was a big shock. I was told there was a chance I might be paralysed down one side, or go into a coma, or even die.” To make matters worse, they had just found out that Bincy was pregnant with their first child, “so we were both very, very worried”.

The operation to remove the tumour took nearly eight hours. It was a success, and after waking up, Rojimon didn’t seem to have any side effects. But gradually, he noticed that his vision was beginning to deteriorate. “After the operation I could see everything, but it slowly got worse,” he recalls. “I was told that the tumour had damaged my optic nerve.”

Within a month, Rojimon had completely lost the vision in his left eye, and the peripheral vision in his right: “I can see this much,” he says holding his thumb and forefinger together, leaving all but a tiny gap. “I was devastated. I needed help to go everywhere, even to the toilet. Before I could see everything and do everything, and suddenly my life had changed.”

Since arriving in Cambridge, Rojimon had been working in the kitchen of an Indian restaurant in the city, “but I had to give up,” he says quietly. “The kitchen was very busy – we needed to work fast, and with knives. It wasn’t safe.”

Losing his vision and his job, with a baby on the way, hit Rojimon incredibly hard. “I battled with a feeling of worthlessness because I was not able to provide for my family. I barely got out of bed, let alone out of the house,” he recalls. “I was thinking ‘How will I manage? How will I look after my wife and child?’ Everything was upside down.”

Baby Joshua arrived in November, seven months after Rojimon’s operation, “and after that I knew I had to live. I wanted to live for him, so I tried to change.” One of the first steps was contacting Cam Sight, a local charity that offers advice and support to people of all ages with sight loss. It was there that he met volunteer Joseph Tucker, who made it his mission to get Rojimon more active.

“He said ‘Are you happy to just go for a walk?’ And I said ‘Yes, I would like to’. So we’d just go for walks slowly, then gradually started to run, and then we’d go on proper runs.

“The first time we ran, he used a ribbon attached from his hand to mine and led me, because I was really scared in case anything happened,” he says. “If someone’s looking at me they can’t tell that I’m blind; I just look like a normal person who’s strong and healthy, so if I hit someone they think I’m doing it on purpose! But now he runs next to me.”

By 2009, Rojimon and Joseph were running regularly together. “It was his idea. He likes to help people like me. And it really did help me,” he adds. “I wasn’t well, mentally or physically; when I was sitting alone, it made me feel that I wasn’t good enough. But doing exercise made me much happier – and enabled me to start turning my life around. I felt I had a purpose again.”

Their first serious race was the Hitchin Half Marathon in July 2012. “It was really hilly!” says Rojimon with a laugh. “It was hard having to run down hills, and really difficult being in such a big group of people. But Joseph was with me all the time. And I was so excited to cross the line; Bincy was there and she was so happy – she was crying like anything!”

He went on to do many more 10K races, half marathons and Cambridge’s famous Chariots of Fire relay, but the big one was in 2014, when Rojimon and Joseph took on the London Marathon.

“I was training to do it in less than four hours, but on the day the weather was really, really hot. After 23 miles I was exhausted, and our time was around 4 hours 35 minutes,” he says.

“It was packed with people – nearly 45,000 runners – and I kept tripping because I couldn’t see the empty water bottles that the other runners had dropped on the ground. But I really enjoyed it; it was an amazing experience.”

These days, however, Rojimon, who lives on the east side of the city with Bincy and Joshua, 10, and daughter Elizabeth, 9, has ditched long distances in favour of sprints, and trains regularly at the Cambridge University Athletics Club in Wilberforce Road.

“The track is safer – I’m not so good on uneven surfaces! So now I’m focusing on 100m, 200m and 400m. I prefer it, and Joseph still runs with me.” He’s been successful, too – picking up four gold medals as well as a trophy for best senior male at the Metro Blind Sport Athletics Open in London last year.

With a passion for healthy activities now firmly instilled in Rojimon, he jumped at the suggestion to take part in an innovative new scheme: the InstructAbility programme – a Sport England-funded project, managed by charity Aspire – that offers gym instructor training and voluntary work placements to unemployed disabled people.

“I thought it would be good for me because I love sports,” says Rojimon. “And Parkside were very helpful, especially Chris Ord, the general manager.” To say he did well in his three-month placement is an understatement: Rojimon impressed bosses with his energy and enthusiasm so much that, after he’d qualified, they offered him a full-time job.

Rojimon is now on a mission to help others to get fit too. He’s started running a mentoring programme for visually impaired leisure centre users, and says he hopes to encourage many more disabled local people get stuck in to the joys of physical activity – in the hope that it will help them as much as it helped him.

earlier!" he says with a grin. "People really worry that they won't be able to do it, or about what other people will think of them if they try. But I can show them how to do it the proper way. There's no need for them to worry."

For Rojimon, running was just the start. He now plays visually impaired tennis as well as goalball – a team game for people with sight loss using a ball with a bell. But, he says, it's working at the gym that's really given him a new lease of life. "Not being able to work was a very big issue for me, but now that I can stand on my own two feet I'm so happy. And with all the exercise, I have mental and physical strength that I didn't have before."

Does he have a message for others? "Don't eat so much, and do some exercise!" he says, giving another of his trademark smiles. "I'm so much more confident now. I have self-respect again. And if I can do it, you can too."

Suzuki launches new Baleno from £12,999

SUZUKI is well known globally for its expertise in small cars and the new Baleno hatchback is its latest example. Since launching its first car in 1955, the Suzulight, Suzuki has produced a vast range of significant models each tailored to the needs of its time.

A larger car than Swift at 3.99 metres long, Baleno offers a more rational choice for buyers looking for extra interior space and larger boot capacity but may not be looking to move up in size to a Vitara or S-Cross. Baleno offers the best tandem distance in its class which is the measurement taken between the front and rear seats.

The Baleno is produced in India where Suzuki has a long established reputation and a major presence for more than 30 years. In 2015, 1.3 million cars were manufactured in Suzuki's two Indian plants and the current share for the passenger vehicle market is a very impressive 48 per cent (April 2016).

THE NEW SUZUKI BALENO: Hatchback now comes in at 4m

Standard equipment for all Baleno models in the range is comprehensive and the SZ-T model (Available with 1.0-litre Boosterjet) includes six airbags, 16-inch alloy wheels, HID headlights, air conditioning, satellite navigation, DAB Radio with USB and Bluetooth connectivity, rear privacy glass, cruise control with speed limiter and front electric windows.

SZ5 (Boosterjet and SHVS model) adds automatic climate control, rear electric windows, 4.2 inch central colour trip display, LED rear lights, Adaptive Cruise Control and Radar Brake Support.

Pricing for the Baleno range starts at £12,999 for the SZ-T 1.0-litre Boosterjet M/T, with the SZ5 1.0-litre Boosterjet A/T tagged at £15,349.

The Boosterjet technology began with the Vitara S in January, and continues for the Baleno model with an all new 1.0-litre three-cylinder version. Offering the same level of power and torque of a much larger capacity normally aspirated engine (1.8-litre), it delivers an effortless drive and genuine driving pleasure.

This unit has an output of 111PS and is also Direct Injection turbocharged (DITC). The new engine has very compact dimensions and offers 170Nm of torque available from 2,000rpm through to 3,500rpm. The optional six speed automatic transmission equipped model offers 160Nm of torque and is available slightly earlier at 1,500rpm to 4,000rpm.

Boosterjet technology is developed by Suzuki and is characterised by improved fuel efficiency and driving pleasure made possible by using a small-displacement, high-torque turbocharger.

More kit listings and specs are available at suzuki.co.uk/cars.

Parents 'relax' on teen driving

MORE than a third of parents let their kids get behind the wheel of a car before they turn 17, according to research by a money-saving website – and most even allow it on public roads.

And almost half (47 per cent) think the legal driving age should be lowered to 16, indicating that parental attitudes to teens' driving could be relaxing.

The survey by VoucherCodesPro.co.uk questioned 2,157 British parents aged 35 or over with children aged five or over, and 35 per cent admitted they had let their children drive before reaching 17.

Some 58 per cent had let their kids drive aged 16, while 3 per cent claim to have let their offspring get behind the wheel illegally aged just nine.

And an incredible 59 per cent even allowed their underage, completely uninsured, totally inexperienced children to drive on the public road network, putting everyone around them at risk.

The vast majority of people (71 per cent) say they allow it in order to give their kids some experience before taking to the road for the first time, but 23 per cent said it was 'just for fun' and 6 per cent asserted they were showing their kids that driving is harder than they might have thought.

BURKA: Is there a peripheral vision issue here?

Safety debate over the burka kicks off

THE wearing of religious head coverings behind the wheel need not be made illegal, despite calls from some quarters to ban wearing the burka and niqab while driving.

According to Yorkshire-based Flexed.co.uk, sufficient motoring law already exists to cover the issue, and that leaves it down to the police to make the correct judgement calls on a case-by-case basis.

"The charge of 'Driving without due care and attention' covers a wide spectrum of sins," says Flexed.co.uk spokesperson Mark Hall, "and this can easily be applied for wearing clothing related to any religious group."

"Let's make it clear – this isn't about what believers in a certain religion wear behind the wheel. Anybody wearing a face covering can fall foul of the law."

Flexed.co.uk found from its own investigations that women driving in a full burka is very rare indeed. In fact, a woman who wears a burka in public would almost certainly come from a more strictly observant family that wouldn't allow an unaccompanied woman to drive a car.

UNUSUAL: Dimma Pug from 1992

Modified Peugeot 205 due at classic auction

AN ultra-rare 1992 Peugeot 205 1.9 GTI, modified by renowned specialists Dimma UK, has just been entered into Classic Car Auctions' (CCA) June Sale.

Founded by British National Rally Champion Terry Pankhurst in 1986, Dimma UK became the exclusive importer for the 205 body kit from Dimma SA Belgium. This particular example, estimated at between £10,000 and £12,000.

Wheels 2016 adds Italian Job theme to seaside fun

WITH just a few weeks to go until the UK's biggest wheels-themed family festival, organisers have announced a host of brand new attractions for 2016, including a daredevil motorcycle stunt team, international championship racing on the beach and an Italian Job-style car chase with a British seaside twist!

Now in its third year and taking place from Friday, June 3 to Sunday, June 5, the free-to-view Bournemouth Wheels Festival is a fully charged showcase of all things that go round and round!

Highlights for Wheels 2016 include the popular Monster Truck Arena. Sponsored by festival partner, Bournemouth's Coastal Business Improvement District (BID), and now with even more sand, this year's arena will offer side-by-side racing and combined shows with everyone's favourite death-defying Aussie, the Kangaroo Kid, on all three days.

Also new for this year is the Two Brothers Motorcycle Stunt Team, bringing a jaw-dropping show to the cliff-top Pop-Up Arenas starring professional TV and film street bike stunt riders, Ashley Mark (Ash) and Mark Van Driel (Vandal).

For details visit bournemouthwheels.co.uk or go to facebook.com/bournemouthwheelsfestival.

Legislation is framed for the driverless era

DRIVERLESS cars will become a "real option" for motorists to buy in the near future as a result of a Government pledge to make the UK a world leader in their development, a minister said.

The Queen's Speech set out plans to boost the development and implementation of innovative technologies like autonomous vehicles and space flight.

Transport Secretary Patrick McLoughlin said the Government is aiming to provide the "infrastructure that will prepare Britain for the future" as he said projects that may seem like "science fiction" will actually bring "vast" economic benefits.

He said the Government's new Modern Transport Bill will "pave the way for the technologies and transport of tomorrow". Cars, drones and a commercial spaceport all featured in the Queen's Speech this week.

It aims to encourage investment in the technology and ensure appropriate insurance is available to support the use of such vehicles.

James Dalton, director of general insurance policy at the Association of British Insurers, said: "Insurers are already working on how to shape the right framework to keep insurance as simple and straightforward as possible for the future of driving."

"The transition from conventional vehicles to a world where drivers become passengers will be the trickiest stage but insurers are committed to supporting the roll-out of this important technology."

Trials of automated and driverless cars are currently taking place in Bristol, Greenwich, Milton Keynes and Coventry.

Transport Secretary Patrick McLoughlin said: "Driverless cars and commercial space flight might seem like something science fiction, but the economic potential of the new technology is huge."

"If we want to propel Britain's economy into the modern age, and generate the jobs that will come with it, it is vital that the right rules are in place to allow new transportation to flourish."

"Having a long-term economic plan that really works for the country means putting in place legislation that puts us at the heart of the modern transport revolution."

Motoring organisations welcomed the proposals.

AA president Edmund King said: "The Queen's Speech hopefully moves us closer to answering the key question: who is liable if a driverless car is involved in a collision?"

"Is it the driver who was behind the wheel, the manufacturer that designed the technology, the insurance company or the highways authority that set up the road environment the car had to negotiate?"

"The insurance industry is best placed to measure the risk and set the parameters for driverless car use and we welcome the Government opening up the means to do this."

Neil Greig of IAM RoadSmart said: "We are excited about the potential safety benefits of new technology particularly when linked to better drivers."

"A semi-autonomous car that can help reduce the impact of human error is a win-win combination. Drivers do want to maintain the right to drive and it will be years before the full benefits of autonomy can be felt."

Cricket

Haverhill victorious at Mistley

HAVERHILL claimed a hard-fought win over Mistley in the Marshall Hatchick Two Counties Championship, Division One.

After winning the toss, Haverhill put Mistley into bat and they restricted them to 123 for 8.

In reply Haverhill were in trouble at 91 for 5 and things got worse when they lost Anthony Phillips for 59.

But Josh Ruthven (44 not out) helped the tail through the innings, with Callum Brunning then coming in and hitting the winning runs.

FAMILY AFFAIR: Members of Haverhill Tennis Club who took part in the first Quorn Red Family Tennis Cup

Tennis

Alfie and Gary clinch victory in Family Cup

MEMBERS of Haverhill Tennis Club took part in the first Quorn Red Family Tennis Cup, which featured six pairs.

The pairs included children aged 10 and under playing with a family member on a red court.

Alfie and Gary Paffett came out on top and will now take on winners from other venues at a Quorn Family Tennis Cup Festival held at one of the Lawn Tennis Association's grass court events.

Other pairs taking part at Haverhill were Freddie and Lisa Paffett, Bea and Jack Sepanski, Lyla and David Barton-Mills, Isabelle and Daniell Miller and Alice and Emma Hopewell-Plant.

Paffett frustrated after clash with DTM rival

GARY Paffett could not hold back his frustration after a disappointing end to the second DTM race of the weekend in Spielberg, Austria.

The Haverhill driver was battling with Timo Scheider for 10th place and a final championship point on the final lap.

Scheider made a mistake in turn two, and Paffett went to use the

Motorsport

DRS on his Euronics Mercedes-AMC C63 to overtake, only for Audi driver Scheider to move across and force Paffett on to the grass.

It cost Paffett dear as he slipped back to 13th place while Scheider finished 10th.

Paffett, who had finished 18th in the first race on Saturday, said: "What a frustrating end to the race weekend.

"We had a fast car in the race, but that was not the case in qualifying, unfortunately. I still can't quite get my head around it.

"The race went really well until the last lap. I saved up my DRS for the final sprint and caught up with the guys in front relatively easily.

"Then, Timo Scheider made a mistake in turn two, and I moved to pass on the inside. At that point, he simply pushed me off onto the grass."

Scheider was given a warning by the race stewards afterwards, but Paffett felt the punishment should have been stronger.

He added: "There was the potential for quite a big accident. Even though there was just one point (up for grabs) that would have at least meant I got something out of the weekend.

"If he (Scheider) gets three warnings he'll get a grid penalty but I think he should have got a straight grid penalty for the next race."
